5. WEEKLY OUTLOOK

First three days of this week, all major markets moved back down to last week's breakout level. Volume decreased on upside and increased on downside. This is not bullish sign. Last two days of this week, we may see a little bounce.

Technical analysis: ES couldn't move up to fill its first gap created on Feb. 27, 2007. Yesterday it created another down gap. The longer those gaps keep opening, the stronger the bias will be on the downside. Please keep this in mind.

Weekly major resistance level is 1465 and support level is 1412.

ES WEEKLY Chart

6. DAILY OUTLOOK

Window dressing continues. ES bounced up from its 20/40 daily moving average lines again yesterday. Today is last day of first quarter in 2007. Repeating yesterday's move should be expected.
